

ERIC T. LAITY

POSITION

Professor of Law, Oklahoma City University School of Law, 800 N. Harvey Avenue,
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma 73102, United States. Email: elaity@okcu.edu

EDUCATION

B.A. (Philosophy), J.D., Harvard University.

PRACTICE EXPERIENCE

Member of the Texas Bar.

Prior to joining the faculty, I practiced law in Texas with law firms in Dallas and Houston. My practice was transactional in nature and included secured lending, corporate acquisitions, retirement plans, engineering and construction, oil and gas, and taxation.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Contracts, Conflict of Laws, International Aspects of U.S. Income Taxation, International Business Transactions, International Law, Income Tax Law, Taxation of Business Entities, Law and Economics, Torts, Environmental Law.

PROGRAM OF RESEARCH

In my research, I study international tax law. The methodology I use includes institutional economics, which is sometimes known as transaction-cost economics. The results of my research appear in the Berkeley Journal of International Law, the Cornell International Law Journal, the Duke Journal of Comparative and International Law, the North Carolina Journal of International Law and Commercial Regulation, the Northwestern Journal of International Law and Business, and the Virginia Tax Review.

VISITING FACULTY POSITIONS

Nankai University School of Law, Tianjin University of Finance and Economics School of Law, and Zhengzhou University School of Law.

PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITIES

American Bar Association:
Committee on U.S. Activities of Foreigners and Tax Treaties, Tax Section
Committee on Foreign Activities of United States Taxpayers, Tax Section
American Society of International Law
International Fiscal Association